

Tennis Players Help Serve Organ Donation!

On January 24, 2007, there was something special happening on the tennis courts at Club Sport in Pleasanton. The California Transplant Donor Network, in collaboration with Club Sport, held a Tennis Tournament Fundraiser in support of organ and tissue donation. The participants and helping hands included recipients, Transplant Network staff and volunteers, as well as Club Sport members and employees. The vibe was fun and lively with profound support and generosity.

The Transplant Network's first fundraiser was hugely successful. Along with the friendly competition, there was an auction and a raffle. Some of the amazing prizes that were donated included two roundtrip Southwest Airlines tickets, a Wilson tennis racket and other tennis goodies, and even an aerobatic airplane ride from Sunset Aviation.

"All in all, the day was a huge "hit" both on and off the courts," said Volunteer Coordinator for the Transplant Network, Cathy Olmo. "The participants had a great day of tennis, the sponsors got recognition, the food was sumptuous, and we raised some money for public education about organ & tissue donation! What could be better than this!?"
